WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY AT COUTANCES, July 28—American armored columns captured Pessy-Sur-Vire and reached the outskirts of Coutances late today as the prisoner bag for the four-day offensive went over 4,000.

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 28—A flood tide of American tanks and armor 20 miles deep poured through the broken Normandy lines today to within two miles of Coutances, field dispatches said, threatening the Germans to a point of disorderly retreat with imminent capture.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's army, slashing more than 11 miles since the start of the big push Wednesday and getting out behind the enemy lines, cut the 84th German division into little knots of resistance.

Many of the corps apparently escaped already from the Coutances pocket, where newspapers estimated 50,000 to 60,000 of the enemy were pressed against the sea.

Allied fliers reporting the chaotic retreat rivaling Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's debacle in North Africa more than a year ago. The van of Bradley's six divisions reached at least to within three miles of Coutances from the northeast, supreme headquarters said. Field dispatches said the Americans held heights overlooking the town.

Drive After Enemy

To the north a column wending through booby-trapped Lessay [illegible] down upon the withdrawing enemy for a gain of two miles to Marguerin, and another column made a four-mile gain from Periers to Corbuchon. Corbuchon is seven miles north of Coutances.

A German broadcast said the Americans already had crossed the Soulles river running through Coutances as a potential defense line.

To the home front the Germans spoke casually of the evident American intention of driving on the big center of Avranches, 30 miles south of St. Lo, and [illegible] 20 miles southeast of St. Lo—a possible hint that the German army might have written [illegible].

Supreme headquarters said there were three German armored divisions on the American [illegible].

The Germans still were holding armored divisions to confront Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British and Canadians below Caen on the allied east flank, where the only activity was the

U. S. Destroys 10 Jap Ships, 26 Planes in Palau Raid

Ships Sweep Into Carolines on Devastating Attack; MacArthur's Planes Hit Truk.

By The Associated Press

The shrinking Japanese empire reeled today from five new allied thrusts, including a devastating U. S. strike into the Carolines which wiped out 10 ships and 26 planes and reduced Palau as a stumbling block on the allied road back to the Philippines.

On eight sea and land fronts, the best Japan could manage was a stand-off against the underdog Chinese at Hengyang. Allied victories were scored at Palau, Truk, Sabang and on China's two battlefronts.

Carrier planes of a fast American task force raided Palau and other western Caroline bases for two days (July 24-25) sinking a destroyer, an oiler, a destroyer-escort or mine-layer, seven cargo vessels and many smaller craft. On the first day 26 planes were destroyed. On the second no enemy interceptors were seen. Five U. S. planes were lost but four pilots were saved. Islands attacked were Arakabesan, Peleliu, Angaur, Malakal and Koror in the Palau group, and Yap and Ulithi which are between Palau and Guam. Adm. Chester Nimitz told of the raid last night.

Truk Raided Again

Another stinging blow, inflicted by bombers of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command sunk one ship and fired three others of a five-ship convoy 160 miles south of Truk. The fifth vessel escaped.

A third sea blow by a British-directed fleet hit Sabang at the northwest tip of Sumatra and wrecked its harbor, vital to control of the Japanese supply line to Burma via Singapore.

London announced today, in addition, that British submarines destroyed 21 Japanese supply and other ships in Far Eastern waters recently, and damaged several by torpedo and gunfire.

Allied land successes nearly matched these clear-cut sea victories. On Guam and Tinian in the Marianas U. S. troops pressed the isolated enemy garrisons closer to annihilation. The Tinian invaders, killing 19 Japs to every marine slain, held a third of the island and were putting Ushi airfield in shape for American use. Tinian casualties 2,089 known Japanese dead, 159 U. S. dead, 441 wounded, 32 missing in six days of fighting.

Nimitz issued no new word on the Guam fighting, but a war correspondent said Apra harbor, a 4,700-foot airfield and the old Navy and Marine base at Sumay seemed about to fall.

On New Guinea the trapped enemy still probed, in vain, for a weak spot in the allied encirclement.

Recapture Leiyang

The Chinese recaptured Leiyang, thus jerking from under the Japanese a springboard for extension of its drive to seize all the Canton-Hankow railway. Leiyang is the southernmost point to which the Japanese had driven out of the north to seize the road.

Japs Now Deny Fliers Slain

Tokyo Statement Contradicts Report B-29 Crews Were Executed.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 28—Tokyo today broadcast an official denial that "American pilots who crashed on Japanese soil have been executed or would be executed."

The Japanese broadcast said it had so notified the United States government, through neutral Switzerland, repudiating a Singapore broadcast of two weeks ago which referred to a "single journey ticket" for Super Fortress airmen landing in Japan. Tokyo's denial apparently was intended to cover only the Super Fortress fliers, since the United States government has announced officially Tokyo's acknowledgement of the execution of some of the fliers who bombed Tokyo in the Doolittle attack of 1942.

July 15 the Japanese, in an English-language broadcast from Singapore, had been reported by allied listeners as saying "any allied airmen who falls or bails out over Japan will be executed" and that B-29 fliers who came down had met "the same fate which was meted out to the raiders of Tokyo some two years ago."

Today's official denial, said "there is no foundation in reports that American pilots who crashed on Japanese soil have been executed or would be executed."

The broadcast said the Japanese reply to a formal American protest had been handed to the Swiss minister three days ago "denying the existence of such intention" and blaming "American propaganda."

The Tokyo spokesman said the "actual broadcast said 'B-29 bombers shot down over the Japanese mainland came with a single journey ticket.'"

"Furthermore," the broadcaster related, The Associated Press report on this message said receivers of the federal (communications) commission in Washington were not working satisfactorily and that only a few sentences of the broadcast were clearly picked up. This may explain the misunderstanding.

SOVIET TROOPS NOW 30 MILES FROM WARSAW

Brest Litovsk Abandoned by Germans and Russians Enter Kaunas.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 28—Brest Litovsk, last great fortress position before Warsaw, was abandoned to the onrushing Russian armies today along with Kaunas in Lithuania, Berlin announced.

Soviet troops charged within 30 miles of the Polish capital. In a 17-mile advance beyond the San river, they penetrated to a point 128 miles from German Silesia.

Brest Litovsk and Kaunas gave the Russians 10 major triumphs in 24 hours as they whipped through the Baltic states, Poland and the Carpathian foothills toward East Prussia, German Silesia and Czechoslovakia.

The German high command announced the evacuation of Brest Litovsk in its daily communique and soon afterward the Transocean agency admitted the loss of Kaunas, the old capital of Lithuania.

Nearest Russian troops were within 340 miles of Berlin itself with the capture of Garwolin, 30 miles southeast of Warsaw.

Other Russian triumphs were announced in a record splurge of orders of the day by Marshal Stalin coloring Moscow's skies with many-colored flares for five hours until midnight.

Russian Victories

These were the victories:

1. Brest Litovsk, historic city of 50,000 on the western Bug river, 112 miles east of Warsaw. Moscow has not yet confirmed its capture but it virtually was surrounded last night and has been leagues behind the westbound front for two weeks. Railroads radiate from there to Warsaw, all sections of East Prussia, Moscow, Minsk and Wilno. There in 1918, a peace treaty in the last war removed revolt-torn Russia from belligerent allied ranks.

2. Kaunas, former capital of Lithuania and its second largest city with 152,305 population. Kaunas had been invested for a fortnight or more, the loss last night of Siaulai made its position untenable. It lies 55 rail miles from the East Prussia frontier, half the way there from captured Wilno which became the Lithuanian capital by Russian decree during the war.

3. Lwow, third city of old Poland and one of Europe's greatest rail centers, toppled last night after days of street fighting. The city of 317,700 is on the Bucharest - Warsaw - Berlin railroad and was a barrier to Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Moscow's Izvestia said Lwow still was burning from German demolitions and that "dozens of thousands of innocent people" had been slain in a Nazi reign of terror.

4. Siauliai, third city of Lithuania with 31,300 persons, fell last night. Thus the last major railway was cut by which the estimated 300,000 troops of the 30 divisions of the German 16th and 18th armies could escape or be supplied. The victory placed the Russians 75 miles northeast of the East Prussia city of Tilsit, 83 mile northeast of the Baltic port of Memel and 125 miles northeast of the East Prussian capital of Konigsberg.

5. Daugavpils, third city of Latvia with 45,160 population.

6. Bialystok, 110 miles northeast of Warsaw, which had long been surrounded and bypassed. Its 60,000 residents made it old Poland's 13th city.

7. Stanislawow, guardian city to Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Its fall and other nearby gains in the Carpathian foothills placed the Russians within 13 miles of the Carpatho-Ukraine sector of Czechoslovakia which Hungary annexed by German largess.

8. Rezekne, a railroad junction in Latvia, 52 miles northeast of captured Daugavpils.

9. Garwolin, a rail center, 30 miles southeast of Warsaw.

10. Other Russian troops broke into Siedlce, another rail center 50 miles due east of Warsaw where street fighting was in progress.

All these tremendous achievements gave Germany her blackest day of the nearly five years of war. The conquests never were matched in the peaks of the German blitzkrieg (lightning war).

The picture was one of German collapse along a meandering front of 1,000 miles from the wooded shores of the Gulf of Finland—an arm of the Baltic sea—to the Carpathians. Both northeast and southeast of Warsaw, the Russians were on broad plains leading into the very heart of the reich, and there were no major natural barriers between.

Upward of 1,632 towns fell to more than 1,500,000 marching men in the front ranks of the eight

BRITISH PUSH NEAR FLORENCE

Veteran New Zealand Troops Take San Casciano, Only Seven Miles Away.

By The Associated Press

ROME, July 28—The Eighth army plunged steadily on toward Florence today against stiff German resistance, veteran New Zealand troops capturing the town of San Casciano only seven airline miles from the city as American and Nazi artillery duelled across the Arno river in the opening stage of the battle for Pisa.

New Zealand troops also were reported fighting in the vicinity of Cerbaia, eight miles southwest of Florence and only six miles from the Arno.

On their left, Indian units made one of yesterday's most substantial gains punching three miles northwest from Monte Spertoli toward the Arno valley. Still further west other Eighth army forces stabbed to within four miles of Empoli, on the Arno 28 miles east of Pisa.

Poles Cross River

On the Adriatic end of the front Polish troops pushed patrols across the Misa river under heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire, and foward elements were reported fighting in the outskirts of Senigallia at the river's mouth.

In the course of their swift advance to the Misa the Poles occupied the towns of Mandriola, San Angelo, Filetto and Ostra.

The Germans continued to lay dense smokescreens to conceal their activities along the north bank of the Arno river, especially on the right wing of the Fifth army. Lower downstream, big guns rumbled incessantly as American batteries hammered away at enemy troop concentrations and supply dumps while the Nazis replied with heavy bursts of artillery fire.

Nazis On Night Raid

The German air force made one of its infrequent night appearances in the Fifth army area, dropping flares and anti-personnel bombs, causing neither damage nor casualties.

Limited gains were reported in the central portions of the Eighth army front.

An army spokesman said the Germans have established at least one more defensive line through the hills approaching Florence from the southwest.

San Casciano, nearest allied approach to Florence was taken without a struggle. Mercatle, two and a half miles southeast of San Casciano also has been cleared.

3,000 U. S. Planes Hit Nazi Oil Plants and Ploesti Fields

Heavy Bombers Fly from England and Italy Against Dwindling Fuel Reserves.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, JULY 28—American air forces hurled more than 3,000 planes today at dwindling German oil resources, striking synthetic fuel plants at Merseburg in the heart of the reich and the rich Ploesti oil fields in Romania. Half the force was heavy bombers striking from both England and Italy.

Other flights of tactical aircraft returned to the Normandy front in France supporting the American army advancing on Coutances by bombing and strafing enemy transport from Paris to the Atlantic coast.

Yesterday, the tactical units destroyed or damaged at least 105 Nazi tanks.

Around 1,000 Flying Fortresses with an equal number of fighters bombed the Leuna synthetic oil plants at Merseburg, for the third time this month, and other central German targets. Merseburg is on the Saale river west of Leipzig and is an important rail junction. The Germans said nearby Halle and Dessau also were attacked amid great air battles.

In a coordinated strike from Italy, more than 500 Liberators with probably an equal escort bombed the Ploesti oil center 35 miles north of Bucharest for the 12th time. Ploesti had been bombed by RAF air forces before dawn.

On the eastern front, the Russians said they again bombed the east Prussian rail center of Tilsit, destroying five military trains and setting "dozens of fires." The Russians said they destroyed 42 German planes.

The assaults were launched despite continuation of the cloudy weather which has restricted air operations over the Normandy battlefront except for one day during the past two weeks, and which forced the raiders over the reich to employ overcast aiming instruments.

The daylight raids followed a night of activity by Italy-based bombers, which hammered the Romanian oil center of Ploesti while home-based RAF Mosquitos pasted Stuttgart for the third time in four nights.

The German radio said Bucharest was bombed also last night.

Because weather prevented an accurate assessment of damage, the official announcement described the allied daylight targets only as military objectives in

4 OHIO FLIERS LOST IN STORM

50 Canadian Planes Hunt for Pilots Missing on Flight to Dayton, O.

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, Me., July 28—Fifty Royal Canadian air force and U. S. Army planes today searched the wilderness north of Moosehead lake for three small training planes, carrying four Ohio commercial pilots, reported downed yesterday along the Canadian-U. S. border.

The planes, part of a flight of nine single-engined ships carried only enough gasoline to keep them aloft until 3:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Ground searching parties, scouring the mountain trails and airmen overhead were hampered by a driving wind and rainstorm.

The planes were listed by the RCAF as "excess materiel," and had been purchased by the Dayton Aircraft Exchange, Dayton, O. All nine were piloted by Ohioans.

List of Fliers

John Golin, secretary-treasurer of the Dayton concern, said the missing fliers were:

Ben Thyson, 35, general manager of the exchange and former air mail flyer.

Earl A. Shelford, 30, of Rockford, Ill., an instructor at the Urbana, O., flying school.

Jarie Curl, 31, of Dayton, owner of a suburban theater, and Kenneth Tild, 35, also of Dayton.

The planes left New Brunswick Wednesday and were due at Millinocket, Me., at 4 p. m. that day. They struck a storm after leaving Megantic, Quebec, and only three arrived at Millinocket on schedule.

David McClean of Lima rode his ship safely to earth in the Great Northern Paper Co. woods north of Moosehead.

Ralph Smeck of Columbus parachuted to safety near the spot where McClean landed. Smeck's plane was wrecked.

Bulgaria Reported Asking Allies for Peace

By The Associated Press

ANKARA, July 27—(Delayed)—Bulgaria was reported today to be negotiating with the allies in an effort to get out of the war. These negotiations were significantly simultaneous with Turkish developments.

(In Washington reliable sources said Turkey may be on the verge of a break in diplomatic relations with Germany.

(Franz von Papen, ace German ambassador to Turkey, now is in Berlin, it was reported authoritatively, and Turkey has recalled its ambassador to Germany.)

Marion Co. Aerial Gunner Missing

FLYING BOMBS HIT LONDON AREA TODAY

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 28—Flying bombs boomed through a channel overcast today bringing new destruction to southern England and the London area.

Many persons were trapped when a robot at lunchtime wrecked a store, blew the top off a bus near a road intersection and flung an automobile from the street into a shop.

Fire started in the store. Scores of firemen and rescuers dug to reach buried shopgirls and customers. People nearby had mistaken the robot's roar for that of an airplane engine and had failed to take shelter.

Even as the rescuers worked, another flying bomb came over. They kept at their grim task.

One entire village had a narrow escape. Fighter pilots shot down several bombs but one glided nearly a mile after receiving a burst from fighter guns over the town and pancaked near a coalyard.

"The town was saved by a miracle," a spectator said.

Throughout the night at another spot, rescue workers dug for nine persons buried in a house. They were guided only by the cries of the victims.

17 Wounded Soldiers Killed in Air Crash

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 28 — Twenty-four persons, including 17 wounded American soldiers, were killed last night when a U. S. troop transport plane hit a cliff near Mull of Galloway in southwest Scotland.

Six members of the crew and a nurse were among the victims.

The wounded were on their way to a Scottish hospital from southern England.

E Bond Goal Topped, County Has Perfect 5th Loan Score

Marion county went over the top in its E bond drive yesterday, rounding out a perfect Fifth War Loan showing in all departments.

A total of 1,159 persons laid $30,506.25 on the line for E bonds yesterday—enough to make the county's total $848,048.25 or 103.5 per cent of the $819,000 goal.

Factory payroll purchases and many individual purchases made in response to last-minute appeals by drive leaders as the campaign neared its close brought in yesterday's big total.

Robert E. White, Fifth War Loan chairman, and Elmer J. Schoenlaub, Marion County War Finance committee chairman, voiced their pleasure this morning over the good showing Marion county has made. Both have been devoting many hours daily in the last few weeks to help push the E bond total over the top.

Mr. White said he was pleased by the good public response and the fact that Marion county's record of topping its quotas in war loan drives has been kept unbroken.

Mr. Schoenlaub commented the Fifth War Loan was an especially good one because of the showing that was possible without any special bond selling events. "It was straight selling, and was accomplished by plenty of hard work," he said.

Records show that 18,531 purchases are represented by the new E total of $848,048.25.

This figure plus $12,000 in Series G bonds sold yesterday, gave the county a new overall total of $5,826,244.25 or 173.1 per cent of the $3,365,000 quota.

Fire Sweeps Smelting Plant at Cleveland

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 28 — The rambling auxiliary plant of the National Smelting Co. was swept by a spectacular fire yesterday that caused damage estimated at from $150,000 to $500,000.

A continuous series of dull explosions vibrated an area of two square miles for five hours as water sprayed upon burning magnesium scrap and powder.

Five persons were injured as a result of the fire, but the approximately 100 employes who were working at the plant when the blaze was discovered near a washroom in one of the buildings escaped unhurt.

Exact cause of the fire was not known, but acting Safety Director Lewis B. Weinacht quoted company President Walter M. Weil as saying he had been advised a worker was smoking in a washroom.

DEWEY PUTS PLANS ON 4-YEAR BASIS

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's plans for refurbishing the federal government—if the electorate gives him the nod in November—were put strictly on a four-year basis today, with the Republican nominee calling for an end of what he classed as New Deal "warfare" on states' rights.

Listing a series of topics for study by a G.O.P. governors' conference at St. Louis next week, Dewey said he hoped the Republicans could fix "an area of responsibility to the people," as between federal and local governments, that would settle the problem "not permanently, but for our time, or rather, the next four years."

He stressed the four-year basis of his program at a press conference yesterday attended also by Gov. Bricker of Ohio, the vice presidential nominee, but did not explain whether he was contemplating only one term if elected. More than a year ago, Bricker proposed a constitutional amendment limiting presidential tenure to one six-year term.

Public's Post-War Job Forecast Not High, Poll Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 27—Both political parties talk glibly about bringing post-war prosperity, but at present the American people are not feeling particularly optimistic about the prospects of employment after the war.

When the public was asked through the nationwide interviewing staff of the Institute to make its best guess as to the probable number of unemployed two years after the war, the median average of all guesses was 6,500,000. About 10,000,000 were unemployed before the European war broke out.

The guesses concerning post-war jobs were gathered by the interviewing staff of the Institute from coast to coast by asking a true cross-section of the civilian population to estimate the number who will be unemployed two years after this war.

Only about one person in eight thinks it will be less than 3,000,000, while approximately one in five believes it will total more than 10,000,000.

The guesses:

3 million or less	12%
4 to 6 million	31
7 to 10 million	24
11 to 19 million	11
20 million or more	8
Unwilling to guess	14
Median average: 6,500,000.

The realism of the public so far as post-war jobs are concerned is also shown in the results of another Institute survey. Persons in the civilian adult population who say they plan to work after the war were asked:

"How certain are you that you will have a job after the war?"

Fewer than half say they are definitely certain of having a job.

"Tommie" Always Effective Speaker, "Mom" Dewey Says

MRS. GEORGE DEWEY.. Fame doesn't fluster her.

• • •

By ROBERTA APPLEGATE
Associated Press Writer

OWOSSO, Mich.—Mrs. George Dewey, mother of the Republican presidential candidate, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, has resolved to keep her life as normal as her son's admirers will permit, but she has indications that "normalcy" will be hard to achieve.

Since her return from Chicago, where she saw her son nominated, Mrs. Dewey ("Anne" to her Owosso friends) has received hundreds of letters from all parts of the United States—some of them congratulatory, some seeking information "about Tom when he was a boy" and others asking her to settle arguments. She answers them all and is "pretty well caught up" now that they are arriving at the rate of only ten a day.

The telephone rings constantly, and numerous strangers who "just wanted to shake her hand" have rung her doorbell.

Her plans for the next few months are vague. She would like to visit the Thomas E. Dewey family in New York, but that depends on campaign plans. Meanwhile she continues to spend Friday mornings as a volunteer worker at Red Cross headquarters and Saturday afternoons at the Owosso hospital, trying at the same time to avoid the spotlight which has been turned on her and her activities.

Likes To Visit

Mrs. Dewey has smartly shingled and waved black hair only slightly streaked with gray, a trim figure, carefully manicured hands and a ready smile. She is considered one of Owosso's best bridge players, plays an occasional game of golf, and enjoys visiting friends and acquaintances.

Normally matter-of-fact and direct almost to the point of brusqueness in her conversation, Mrs. Dewey's voice softens and her eyes shine when she talks of "Tommie." She refuses to speculate on the election. "After all, that's in the hands of the campaign managers," she explains.

It is obvious that if "Tommie" does a good job during the campaign, she'll be satisfied. Of his acceptance speech, she remarks, "Wasn't it good? I thought it was just right."

Mrs. Dewey thinks her son's platform manner hasn't changed much since he was a high school orator and debater. "He always did do something to you when he talked—he was always so sincere," she says—and then adds laughingly, "Of course, I might be prejudiced."

Didn't Pick Career

If she ever thought her son might grow up to be president, Mrs. Dewey doesn't say so, but she's emphatic in denying that she and Mr. Dewey, who died in 1927, had any special ambition for their son.

"We didn't believe in picking out a career, but of course we tried to guide him when he needed it," she says. "We really were very glad when he changed his mind—but he made his own choice."

She very much approves his choice of a wife, whom she describes as a "lovely and charming woman," and proudly shows pictures of Governor and Mrs. Dewey which she thinks do them justice. She is equally fond of her two grandsons.

The nominee's sons never have visited Owosso because their parents hesitated to bring the children so far by train, but Mrs. George Dewey usually spends several weeks a year in New York with them. Last year was the first time for many years she made only one trip. "You know," she says, "it's easier and cheaper for one person than for four to take such a trip."

Lives Alone

Mrs. Dewey lives alone in a large white frame house, comfortably but not elaborately furnished. During the summer months she receives her guests in a gaily-decorated sunporch. She says she'd rather sit there on the front porch swing the presidential nominee made when he took manual training as a boy, explaining, "The mosquitoes don't bother me in here."

Break in Line Drains Standpipe at Galion

Special to The Star

GALION, July 28 — Loss of water from a defective water main at East Church street and North Murray street drained the water works stand pipe and lowered the reservoir by two runs, it was learned here Thursday. The loss was estimated at two days' pumping of water and it stood the reservoir by two rings, felt seriously at this time because of water shortage. The dead-end plug of the 8-inch main at the end of East Church street came loose and was not discovered until after 5 o'clock Thursday morning when L. E. Hough of 750 East Church street found his cellar filled with water despite no apparent pipe leakage. Repair of the main was completed Thursday afternoon.

Marion Co. Schools Have Few Vacancies, All Hard To Fill

Officials Hunting Instructors To Handle Eight Openings; Turnover of Teachers Here Called Unusually Light.

Although teacher turnover in the county school system has been less than usual this year, replacements are becoming increasingly difficult to obtain, according to D. T. Mills, superintendent of county schools. Approximately eight positions are now vacant in the system, Mr. Mills said, and he hopes to be able to fill them before the beginning of the school year which will probably come on the second Tuesday after Labor day.

Home economics positions to be filled by women predominate in present vacancies. Applicants for several teaching positions to be filled by men are now under consideration. Teacher turnover in peacetime 15 per cent of the total teaching staff for the county schools, has been greatly reduced this year, Mr. Mills said.

Enrollment To Rise

As far as enrollment of pupils is concerned, indications seem to point to a slight increase this year over previous years. Tabulation of fall enrollments has not yet been completed at the superintendent's office. Though there probably will be a decrease in pupils of upper high school age the loss will be compensated by a rise in children entering the lower grades. Though no date has been set for this year's opening, plans probably will follow the the program of previous years.

Repair jobs being carried out at schools in the county are painting of outside woodwork at Waldo school, repairing of floors at Pleasant Township school, including the installation of a new auditorium floor. Wall repairs are being carried out at Meeker.

Delaware Co. Troubled

Nearby Delaware county schools report a large teacher turnover in contrast to the situation in Marion county. With many teachers in elementary and high school grades submitting their resignations the turnover this year promises to be the largest on record, according to a report from Delaware. Many teachers there have left for places in industry. Others have merely been transferred from one school to another of the county system.

G. E. McFarland, superintendent of Delaware county schools, said that with few exceptions, boards of education are encountering difficulty in securing replacements for both elementary and high schools.

The situation as it regards replacements is much the same in both Marion and Delaware counties. Demands from war industries and opportunities to fill jobs with higher wages have drawn all but a few from a usually crowded field of applicants.

Alternate rows must be detasseled if the hybrid seed is to develop and be of any good for planting again next year.

Two additional implements similar to the five already in use by the Putnams are being manufactured here and will be in use shortly. This year there are nearly 300 acres of hybrid corn under cultivation for seed purposes, it was announced.

MODERATE VICTORY TALK IN CONGRESS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 28—Talk of chances for an early victory over Germany swept optimistically through congress today, moderated by advice from Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.) that this is no time to get happily excited.

McCormack, Democratic leader in the house, sent word from Boston that "I am amazed at Senator Vandenberg's (R-Mich.) forecast of an early German collapse." He added: "This is not the time for responsible political leaders to build up an expectation of an early return to the ways of peace. It is rather the time to inspire a grim determination to go forward and win the war."

Vandenberg had said "chances for an early German collapse are sufficiently encouraging" to make it urgent for congress to act on bills for reconversion of industry from war uses. He has summoned Republican senators to a conference next Tuesday, when congress ends its summer recess.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military affairs committee, ventured the forecast that Germany would capitulate by Dec. 1. Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), head of the senate subcommittee on military appropriations, commented: "I don't see how Germany can last through the rest of this year."

Much less hopeful were statements this week by Secretary of War Stimson, Navy Secretary Forrestal and Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet.

Stimson said after his battle-front inspection tour that the end of the European war "is not yet apparent" to the troops doing the fighting, and deplored talk of "quick victory." Forrestal reminded a press conference there is "still a long way to go in the Pacific war, and Admiral King cautioned that the fall of Premier Tojo didn't mean a weakening of Japanese resistance.

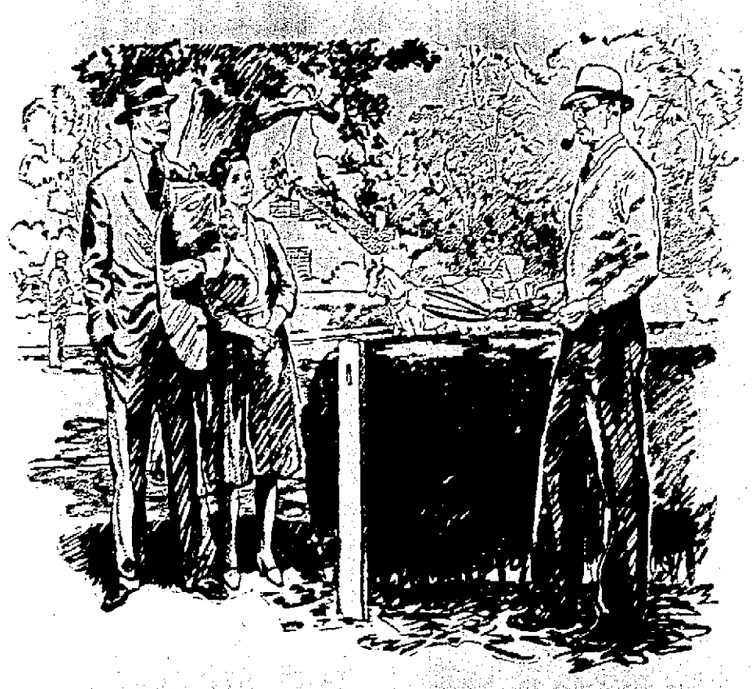
THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...



"Mary and I were just saying, Judge, how lucky we are here in America that we have so many natural resources to help win the war."

"That's right, Jim. When war broke out we had oil, we had steel, we had food, lumber, aluminum...practically everything we needed. There's one thing we didn't have...rubber. The enemy had that."

"But that didn't bother us for long. Soon American brains and industry had synthetic rubber by the tons rolling out of plants. That filled a critical need...you can't win a war without rubber."

"I was very much interested the other day in reading a statement made by a high government official on synthetic rubber. In it he said 'It is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry.'"

"He also said that, in his estimation, the tremendous contribution of distillers' industrial alcohol to the synthetic rubber program had not received the recognition which it deserves."

"We certainly learned something today, didn't we Mary?"

Judge Hector S. Young

PUBLIC service performed by Judge Hector S. Young included a wide and varied range of activities and interests, all contributing much to community welfare and betterment.

All the accomplishments and deeds of his busy life which death brought to an untimely close yesterday, are worthy of grateful commendation and praise, but we are especially impressed with what he did throughout the years in support of movements and institutions concerned with the interests of young people.

The public schools received his unceasing attention from the beginning of his professional career until his final illness. He served over a long period of years as a board of education member and clerk and after this official connection was terminated he kept up his aid to the schools by contributing counsel and cooperation in their maintenance and progress. He invariably responded to all requests for advice and assistance from the school management, and in view of his knowledge of school affairs and deep personal interest in having Marion's young people provided with the best of educational facilities, such requests came often. In every campaign for school improvements and other essential needs, Judge Young was called upon frequently to present the facts in talks to the public and this he did whole heartedly and effectively.

Further evidence of Judge Young's interest in youth is found in his leadership in the Y. M. C. A., where he performed official duties for many years, including the post of president and finally as vice president at the time of his death. He was among those who visioned future expansion and improvement of Y. M. C. A. facilities leading ultimately to a new and larger building and had he lived he undoubtedly would have been foremost in bringing that program to fulfillment.

We have gone into more detail regarding this phase of Judge Young's life, which also includes aid to the church and other agencies beneficial to youth, because we believe too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the highly urgent need of greater attention being given to the welfare of young people for the purpose of assuring them the best possible start in life. We hope to see many of Marion's good citizens, inspired by the example set by Judge Young, emulate that example by entering personally into this important work.

It goes without saying that a man thus interested in human welfare would be eminently qualified by quality of mind and character to preside in a court of justice, and Judge Young unquestionably measured up to that standard. In addition he had qualifications coming from ability and a thorough understanding of law, gained through experience and schooling, along with a natural aptitude inherited from a father who had been a judge in the same court. His name, along with the father's, will have an honored place in the history of the Marion county common pleas court.

Hara Kiri for Bureaucracy

RUBBER DIRECTOR BRADLEY DEWEY'S good example in recommending that his emergency office be abolished after his resignation goes into effect Sept. 1 isn't likely to be followed widely.

It would be an easy solution for the problem of cutting back government to more reasonable proportions, but it has no appeal to professional government employes. They cannot be expected to propose hara kiri for bureaucracy; that obviously is the prerogative of the special administrators and volunteers who have somewhere to go when their jobs in Washington expire.

Col. Dewey's proposal, however, is encouraging. There apparently is important pressure for its adoption. Bernard M. Baruch, who recommended creation of the office of rubber director to coordinate development of synthetics and conservation of the existing natural supply, is said to favor it. The power of example might mean something, though the immediate effect will be a scramble by the professional employes of the rubber director's office to get relocated in a safer bureaucratic niche. It must not be forgotten that during the years when unemployment stalked the land, there never was an unemployment problem in Washington.

So They Say—

The German people may live to regret with much bitterness the day their leaders decided to adopt a weapon (robot bombs) which could not postpone defeat but which undoubtedly will increase the severity of retribution which might otherwise have been somewhat softened by the far-sighted tolerance of Great Britain.—The Daily Mail, London newspaper.

The notion that the great books constitute the whole of education assumes a class of men with a purely backward vision. The technical training of mere mechanical experts produces men with no vision at all. Liberal education is the education of the whole man.—Prof. Irwin Edman of Columbia university.

The Japanese machine gunners are very good. They wait until you are almost on top of them before they start firing.—Chinese corporal.

Demobilization for peace is no easier than mobilization for war. It will require the patience and cooperation of all Americans.—Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr.

News Behind the News

Dewey, After Good Job with Rubber Program, Believed To Have Quit To Avoid Trouble Ahead.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 28 — Behind Rubber Director Dewey's resignation is a tire situation with which no man who has done a great job might want to be connected.

Dewey hinted at it in a polite way in his withdrawal statement. He said the only crisis in prospect was in heavy duty tires where a manpower shortage exists.

The whole truth is Dewey asked the joint manpower commission months ago for 6,000 men—a mere 6,000—he said were necessary to complete his tire program. He heard nothing from it. Apparently not even an answer was given.

His statement about a crisis was too polite to reflect his inner mind. The best authorities on the complex subject do not see how the proposed production of tires for this year is going to be met. They see a prospect of a breakdown affecting all tires for civilians, bus and truck use.

Now here is Dewey, an outstanding man in his business, who has done everything he can. In plant construction, synthetic rubber production and in creating a reservoir of natural rubber he has been an admitted success in his job.

Problems Ahead

But tires are being doled out faster than they are being produced while production is lagging behind schedule. The schedule for the year was 22,000,000 tires (incidentally less than half peacetime output.)

During the first six months of the year, the factories were producing something more than 1,000,000 a month, about 9,000,000 in the first six months. If they can reach the 22,000,000 figure the last six months, they will be doing better than well.

In the early months of the year, the government started doling out 1,000,000 tires a month. In May this figure was increased 250,000 and the same increases were made in June and July. The quotas for August and September have been increased almost as much again to a figure of 1,950,000 a month. That will carry every one up to a month before election. Quotas for October and November have not been set.

The increases could be partly explained by the fact that a stock pile of synthetics had been accumulated by Dewey, amounting to around 4,000,000. With the war near an end, and nearly every one in actual need of tires, some increase in quotas seemed justified. But where the crack underneath in the planning is apparent is in the lagging production.

Follows Jeffers Example

Former Rubber Synthesist Jeffers got out as a success in office when his program had reached a governmental situation beyond his control.

It seems to me Dewey may be following the example of his predecessor, but this time the office is to be completely liquidated and the program continued by the various government agencies operating the synthetic plants.

Dewey is a Baruch man. The guiding hand of this one of the few sound administration ghosts chose him. This is not strictly true of Jeffers.

Although it is not generally known, Jeffers was Baruch's second choice for the job. First was his own aide Hancock.

There is another break noticeable in the inner casing of this tire situation. Dewey is a private synthetic rubber manufacturer. He has long advocated a specific post-war program for continuance of synthetic tire making.

President's Remark

In many plants the government started, construction and working costs were not too high to prevent commercial private post-war operation. Dewey wanted the government to set aside plants which cost too much, and keep them aside for possible future emergencies, and turn the others over to private business.

But Mr. Roosevelt said something at a press conference along the line that he did not expect the government to continue to subsidize the rubber industry after the war. It was accepted as a crack at the Dewey program, although strictly speaking Dewey planned no subsidy.

Big Government Here To Stay?

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—Add post-war plans: the "decentralization" of official Washington, but not the same kind of decentralization that has taken so many agencies to other cities.

U. S. Grant III

This post-war plan is the conception of the National Capital Park and Planning commission, headed by Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant III. The general doesn't make any great claims for his post-war plan. He says it isn't anything that can be tossed off in five or even 15 years; but actually he's way ahead of some of the post-war dreamers, because they are going to start this year on one of the four new bridges across the Potomac and No. 1 on the after-V-day priority list is the gigantic new General Accounting Office building.

Even visitors to Washington rarely realize what the concentration of government along the Mall in the mile-and-a-half from the Capitol to the Lincoln Memorial means. In this area, almost 300,000 government workers toil daily. The traffic congestion is terrific during morning and evening rush hours. From Silver Springs and Chevy Chase in Maryland and Alexandria in Virginia, to mention only three suburban areas, thousands of workers have to converge on this heart of the working city.

What even few residents realize is that nearly 200,000 of these government workers are housed in "temporary" buildings. These range from the little cracker boxes that have been tossed up along the Mall in the last two years to the elongated, three-story Navy and Munitions buildings, which were built as temporaries in World war I.

The commission has on its agenda the razing of all these temporaries and, in the vicinity of the Washington monument and the Lincoln Memorial, landscaping the terrain and avoiding construction of any other buildings in that area.

Instead the new construction will push south and east toward the Anacostia river, where there now is a slum section.

The four new bridges will open up new residential districts in Virginia and spread the traffic from those already settled. The sprawling Pentagon building is already a step in the direction of decentralization and in post-war years probably it can house both the Army and Navy.

Fits Prediction.

With that burden off the heart-of-the-city and the huge new GAO scheduled to break ground at Fifth and G streets NW. about three blocks outside the present jammed quadrangle, Maj. Gen. Grant's commission has gone far toward realization of its post-war dream.

An interesting factor in the commission's plans is that it doesn't consider there's a chance of materially reducing the number of government workers in Washington and all blueprints are based on about the same number we now have. That fits into the prediction frequently heard here, even by some of the economy-minded congressmen: "Big government is here to stay."

GOING MY WAY?

Good Neighbor Brazil Picks Up a Gun

First Latin American Troops Reach Italy.

BRAZILIAN troops have reached Italy to fight alongside Americans, British, Scots, French, Poles, New Zealanders, South Africans and Italians—all opposing the Germans on that front.

Americans who have thought of the good neighbor policy principally in terms of cooperation on problems of this hemisphere now are reminded that the largest of the good neighbors also is an important ally in the war.

The Brazilian troops in Italy are the first land forces to reach Europe from a Latin American nation in two World wars. In the last war, Brazil dispatched naval units to the European combat zone, but no troops.

In this war, Brazil became a bulwark at the outset against a possible German thrust across the South Atlantic. When that possibility had been removed it became the jumping-off to the Africa-Europe-Asia theater.

National Geographic Society points out a number of interesting things about Brazil's history leading up to its wartime role. It has been a Portuguese colony, an independent empire and a modern republic—the only American nation ever to govern land in Europe (Portugal) and the only one to have a dynasty ruling on its own soil. Brazilians speak Portuguese.

Their country is surpassed in size only by the Soviet Union, prewar China and Canada. It is about as large as the United States and Alaska together. Its area nearly equals that of all the rest of South America, and its population of 44,000,000 is more than twice that of any other Latin American country.

ECONOMIC geographers agree that few, if any, political divisions of the earth possess the potential resources of Brazil. Eighty per cent or more of the land has been adjudged productive. Ample rainfall makes possible great stands of rubber, coffee, timber and other crops. Brazil's "jungle," far from being wasteland, is largely exploitable. The largest and purest iron ore deposits, an estimated 2 percent of the world's total, are in Brazil's state of Minas Gerais. Other minerals, many not found elsewhere in commercial quantities, abound.

Unfortunate geographic circumstances have hindered quick development. Iron deposits are comparatively untouched because of lack of coal for coke. What coal Brazil has is poor and is found in Rio Grande do Sul, nearly 1,000 miles from the iron mines. The entire country annually consumes only 15 percent as much coal, domestic or imported, as the city of New York.

Rivers in many cases flow inland, only to reach the sea by a circuitous route. The Amazon, only extensively navigable river that flows directly to the sea, unhappily lies in Brazil's most inhospitable and sparsely populated area, along the equator.

The country has no deep coastal plain as does eastern North America. A high mountain range fronts the Atlantic, making a picturesque harbor for Rio de Janeiro, but greatly complicating transport. Some cities along the coast are isolated from the interior and connected with each other only by the sea.

Another great difference between the United States and Brazil is that the latter is not a trans-continental, two-ocean-fronting power. Brazil, too, had its colorful area of westward expansion, but when its pioneers reached the towering Andes they not only found an impassable barrier, but also ran into already established Spanish colonies of the western coast.

IMMIGRATION was affected by the climate. Europeans wanted to go where the weather would be the same. In the century of greatest immigration, 33,000,000 people settled in the United States, 4,000,000 in Brazil.

Brazil's political structure is like that of the United States; its full name is United States of Brazil. Twenty states, eight territories and two federal districts make up the country.

A state of war against Germany and Italy was recognized by Brazil after a Nazi submarine wantonly sank a coastal vessel on Aug. 22, 1942, killing 600 persons. Though land actions have been relatively far away, the war has been cruel to Brazilians. Its large non-self-sufficient population areas have suffered severe shortages because of transportation difficulties. Lack of fuel, Brazil's great peacetime problem, has not only kept war plants on a day-to-day basis, but also in some instances has curbed train traffic by 75 per cent. Practically no private automobiles have operated since July, 1943.

During the height of submarine operations Brazil was cut in two. The Rio-Sao Paulo area's only connection with the vitally important Recife-Natal bulge was by sea. Lack of petroleum made air traffic difficult.

Brazil's leaders have indicated that they look to postwar days when the country can import machinery from the United States to set up plants on a large scale for processing raw materials at home instead of sending them to foreign countries for manufacture. Brazil's war role, however, has been to supply resources badly needed by the Allies — rubber, coffee, beef, quartz, copper, iron, industrial diamonds, mica, beryllium, manganese, tungsten, bauxite, timber, cotton, vegetable oils and many others.

A Soldier's Little Things

"UNDER an apple tree in the Normandy orchard they were putting in a little bag beside the dead soldier his personal belongings—first a tag from around his neck, then letters from his pocket, a fountain pen and trinkets."—War news.

Summer breezes lingen with smells—
Cordite, dirt and death.
Silent, battered parish bells—
Corpsmen out of breath;
And a kid beneath a tree,
Through at last with war.
Now they place beside him there
Little things he bore.

II

Little articles that so
Bound him to his folks—
Kept his mind from thoughts of woe:
Letters, clippings, jokes—
Photographs and rosary—
And a fountain pen,
Given him the morning he

III

Envelope now torn and bruised,
Treasured through his thought;
Perfume that a loved one used
By it had been caught;
V-mail yellowed, rumpled, old,
And a girl's own poem,
More to him than rajah's gold
Memories of home.

IV

Tattered snapshot now so grim—
Picture of a pup,
That had romped the fields with him
When spring things came up;
Clippings from the home-town press
Bringing back the spell
Of a girl...a place...a dress
That he loved so well!

V

Billfold with a bloody stain
"Old Man" gave him that
At the depot in the rain,
With a tender pat...
In it is a smiling face—
Gentle, hopeful, calm...
How it helped him meet the pace!
How he loved you, mom!

VI

Letter from the steady girl
"I'll be waiting, Joe".
Always made his senses whirl—
Kept him yearning so!
Lines meant only for his eyes—
Never meant for us...
Hopes and dreams and tears and sighs...
Things sweet kids discuss

VII

All he left is in this pile?
Everything? Sez you!...
Mister, wait a little while—
That is hardly true;
Honor, courage, love true-blue,
Faith in all he did....
Treasured by this kid!

VIII

Keep them well in mind, my friend.
As you fill the bag
With the little things no end
There beside the tag;
Sleep well, boy, beneath the tree
Where a songbird swings....
You have helped to keep men free
With your little things!

Practical Gifts

By Truman Twill

It is foolish to believe a man when he says he can't think of anything to buy for his wife's birthday. He can think of many practical things that would be ideal for his little lady.

If she has been complaining about the odor of that pipe he has been breaking in since last Christmas, what could be nicer than to relieve her mind by buying a couple of new ones?

It also occurs to the male shopper in these circumstances that there are many jobs around the house he could do better if he invested some money in new tools for his work bench. He could make a new table, perhaps, or repair some of the furniture his wife always is complaining about.

With only a slight expenditure, relatively speaking, he could restock the household beverage department so his wife would never need to be embarrassed by suggesting in the course of an evening that he leap nimbly from his place of comfort and mix a tray of Blue Blasters out of supplies that are not on hand—a gift any woman should be happy to acknowledge.

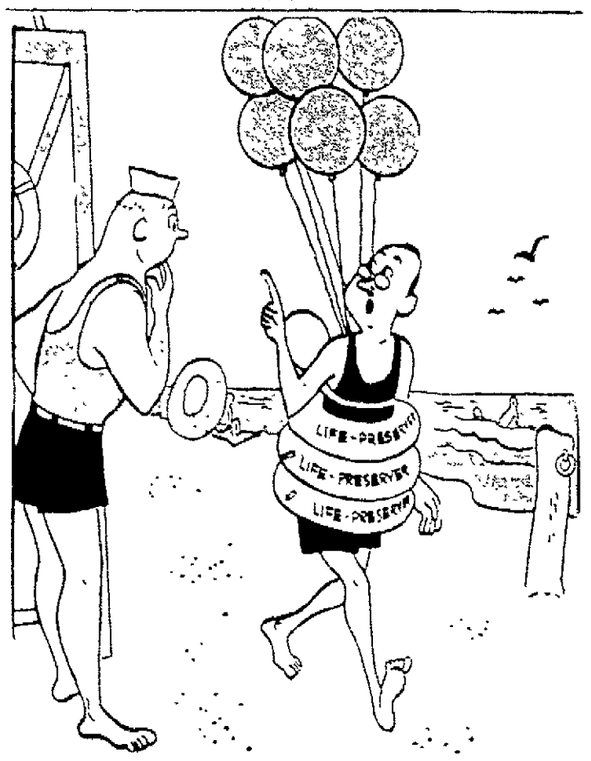
The possibility of a pair of nice neckties should not be overlooked, particularly if a wife happens to be offended by the sight of some neckties already on hand. Imagine her surprise and pleasure on being told that out of sheer consideration for her the old boy friend will never wear that red atrocity again, but will wear these nice new ones, instead.

It is the same with hats. If she does not like the effect of that broccoli leaf which is plenty good for another summer, a man is tempted to buy a new hat for himself, with a green band and a feather in it. Make it a happy birthday for both of them—that's the spirit.

Or, if looking for something a little nicer—a little more pretentious—a man thinks about stepping into the furniture store and picking out something his size in an easy model so his wife can relax in his old chair, instead of having to wait for him to go to bed so she can get seconds on the only really comfortable chair in the house.

A man with his eyes open thinks of many things like this that a woman should appreciate and that he would enjoy buying for her pleasure—practical things that would make her more comfortable by removing some of the little annoyances she speaks of so often.

But he ends up by getting her something impractical, instead, and wondering for months afterward whether she really liked it or just said she did to keep from hurting his feelings.



"I'm going in. Keep an eye on me, will you?"

SEALING OF MINE FIRE DELAYED UNTIL SUNDAY

New Crews Trained When Others Decline Job.

By The Associated Press

BELLAIRE, O., July 28 — The job of sealing the entries and haulage routes in the Powhatan mine was postponed until Sunday after workmen last night refused to enter the shaft where 66 men lost their lives in a fire July 5.

Joe Chadwick, in charge of training mine rescue crews for the state division of mines, said two new state-trained teams, each composed of six men, would begin a refresher course today preparatory to entering the Catt's run slope Sunday morning. They will shut off all entries deep in the pit so the fire may be smothered near its course.

Chadwick said the crews which yesterday refused to enter the slope were volunteers who had taken a 20-hour course in preparation for the work.

Marcus Kerr, chief of the Ohio division of mines, yesterday said the volunteer crews had refused to enter the shaft for less than $3 an hour. The state division of mines has a standard price of $1.50 an hour for such work, Kerr added.

FORD DENIES OFFER OF FUNDS TO PELLEY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 28 — Motor Magnate Henry Ford has issued a vigorous denial that he promised financial support to a plan to "alter the course of American history in the next two to four years"—a plan outlined in a letter which has been introduced in evidence in the mass sedition trial.

The letter, purportedly written in 1942 by William Dudley Pelley, a defendant, to Maj Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, of the U. S Army, retired, said the writer wanted to share his information with Ford, Charles A Lindbergh Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D-mont) and Moseley, "It said "Mr Ford is definitely interested in the preliminary material * * * and has implied that he would put a million dollars behind our gesture * * *."

Outside the courtroom yesterday, a Ford spokesman charged that the statement of the writer, as concerned Ford, was a "malicious lie" and that Ford "has never seen Pelley or Moseley and the former was thrown out of the office building at Dearborn when he attempted to obtain funds."

The letter gave no other details except to state that Lindberg's support was to be obtained for the "glamour," Moseleys to convince the Army of the writer's sincerity and Wheeler's to get the "necessary government tasks" done.

Labor Paper Critical of CIO Fund Drive

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 28 — The weekly newspaper, Labor, published by 15 railroad unions, most of them AFL affiliates, editorially criticized the CIO political Action Committee's fund raising today.

Referring to plans for raising an aggregate of $6,000,000 for the fall campaign, the editorial said, "No fair-minded American can question the right of workers to organize for political purposes and to ardently support their friends and oppose their enemies.

"However, if Mr. (Sidney) Hillman or any one else imagines that a proposal to raise $6,000,000 to control a presidential campaign will not cause the most serious repercussions from one end of this country to the other, he simply does not know the American people."

Meanwhile the United Mine Workers Journal in an editorial condemned the Democratic platform, asserting that its theme, as regards labor, is to "stand pat."

Secret Weapons Unlikely To Halt Allies in France

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels assures his people that Germany has secret weapons, the sight of which made his heart "stand still"—and despite his tendency to be seized and bombast we shall be unwise to dismiss this lightly.

Certainly the citizens of Britain, who are suffering death and destruction from Hitler's new robot bombs, don't discount the possibility and even probability of further devilish inventions Prime Minister Churchill has warned them to be prepared for even greater trials

We shan't have to wait long to learn the truth The Germans will have to get their secret weapons into action fast if they hope to gain an advantage before the swiftly rising tide of disaster engulfs them on the fighting front—as witness today's good news from both eastern Europe and Normandy.

Present Rockets Are Babies

Goebbels didn't give details, but the Nazis have been bragging about having rockets so huge that they will carry ten tons of explosive against England The present flying bomb (which is a different species of death) is a baby beside it.

Although this sounds fantastic to the uninitiated, military experts recognize that the creation of such weapon is possible.

Of course Goebbels is trying to bolster the morale of his people in fact of the Prussian military revolt and the reverses on the battle fronts. Still, it's hard to believe that even an unscrupulous and practiced liar like the propaganda minister would dare try to fool the public by promising to deliver something that doesn't exist The results of such misrepresentation would be rebellion by the people themselves.

Hitler has promised Germany victory by means of secret weapons. Well, he certainly delivered one terrible instrument in the flying bomb, and his insistence on reorganizing for total war and making a fight to the finish might indicate he has something further up his sleeve.

War Lords Unimpressed

However, while the dictator may think he has a chance to secure a compromise peace, surely he and all his captains realize by this time that they can't win the war. The Prussian war lords, who represent some of the world's smartest military brains, turned against Hitler precisely because they realized that Germany had lost the war and they felt further resistance was a waste of men and wealth.

The Prussian militarists presumably know all about any secret weapons which Germany may have. If they thought these weapons would win the war they would have stuck with the fuehrer.

If Hitler has new weapons it's a fair bet that, like the flying bomb, they're of the type calculated to smash civilian morale, without having great military value. There's no secret weapon likely to halt the allied offensive Hitler's sole hope is that by hook or by crook he may secure a compromise peace. That being so, the long suffering people of England may be about to undergo further trials of stamina, since they are the ones he can reach readily.

350 Brewery Workers Return in Columbus

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 28—Beer flowed once more today as approximately 350 workers returned to their jobs in three breweries ending a work stoppage which began July 10

Charles A. Demmler, business agent for the Brewery Workers Union local 47, said the return-to-work decision resulted from the brewery operators' refusal to negotiate while the workers remained idle.

The walkout, Demmler said, was provoked by a combination keg and bottle delivery system to which the workers objected. Union leaders and brewery operators will meet tomorrow in an effort to settle the dispute, he added.

Once Blind, Young U. S. Air Gunner Finds Sight Again

By The Associated Press

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., July 28—Blind Sgt Forrest L. Vosler of Lavonia, N. Y., holder of the congressional medal of honor, opened his eyes the other morning at Valley Forge General hospital.

The maze of red, blue, green, purple and yellow colors in the Red Cross afghan lying across his feet startled him.

"Gosh, they're bright," he thought, "just like a technicolor movie, much brighter than I remember when I could see last December."

He could see now—as the doctors said he would.

Now, thought Vosler, he would be able to go to Washington to receive the nation's highest decoration from the hands of the President — maybe even accept Mrs. Roosevelt's recent personal invitation to visit Hyde Park.

A nurse entered the ward. She looked much different than he had pictured her in his sightless mind when he was brought to Valley Force June 2 and his wounded, infected right eye was removed in the hope that the vision in the other would clear.

But young Vosler—not yet old enough to vote — still carries a chunk of steel in his chest from the Flying Fortress raid over Bremen last December.

Their plane, shot down by German fighters, plunged into the North sea and Vosler, wounded and blinded by gunfire, crawled out on the wing, followed by a wounded tail gunner. Suddenly, Vosler, hearing a noise behind him sensed what had happened. The tail gunner, weak from wounds, had slipped into the water.

Without hesitation, Vosler plunged into the water, groped and found his companion and then held him afloat until both were pulled to safety It was this heroic action that won him the award.

Inside and outside the walls of beleaguered Hengyang the Chinese defenders and the Japanese were locked in confused fighting. After 32 days of costly battling the decision for this strategic tall town seemed near at hand.

The Chinese tempered their Hengyang ordeal with a victory in Yunnan province, where enemy defenses at Laifengshan were overrun. They killed at least 600 of the enemy at this town, which is an outpost of Tengchung, the city which controls part of the Burma road. Tengchung, under U. S air attack, appeared next on the Chinese list.

American and Chinese troops widened their area of control around Myitkyina, but had not yet taken that key north Burma city, also vital to use of the Burma road.

Berlin Breaks Wires to Neutral Countries

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 28 — Communications between Berlin and neutral countries were cut off last night under circumstances similar to those which preceded the announcement of an abortive attempt on Hitler's life, and today there still was no immediate explanation of the cause.

Formerly communications were broken between Berlin and the outside world during air attacks but recently during Mosquito bomber attacks there has been no such isolation of the city.

Reichsminister Paul Joseph Goebbels, meanwhile, cracked down on the German people with two "total war" orders, forbidding all vacations for women workers and directing that front line troops do the manual work of bridge building and road repairing formerly done by the Todt labor organization.

Strike Threatens Engine Production

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 28—A spreading strike of workers on warplane engine parts today threatened to cripple all operations in the six-plants of a General Motors Corp. division employing 2,500 persons.

Walkouts in five of the Chevrolet Gear & Axle Division plants, originating in a dispute over increased production rates on parts for Pratt & Whitney Engines, had left approximately 1,800 men idle. The sixth plant is used largely for apprentice training.

RUSSIA

great Soviet army groups The advance was two miles an hour in places.

The struggle for Warsaw was only one of a series of climatic battles in which the Red army put the Nazis to flight in the Baltic republics, massed for an assault along half of East Prussia's entire frontier speared to within 110 miles of Germany proper and stormed the Carpathian gateway to Hungary

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky developed the frontal attack on Warsaw from Garwolin, 30 miles southeast, sending the first wave of mounted and armored forces rolling forward on both sides of the main highway which runs parallel to the Vistula river.

Suicidal German snipers attempted to harass the advance, which front dispatches said had as yet encountered no fixed line of fortifications in the flat countryside

Overhead Soviet fighter bombers scoured the area in a hunt for targets.

The second arm of Rokossovsky's combined Russian-Polish command was mopping up Siedlce, 50 miles east of Warsaw, and probing westward.

On Hitler's shattered eastern front from the forested shore of the Finnish gulf to the cloud-wrapped mountains girding the Rumanian basin, there was no letup in the Red army's annihilation campaign, master-minded by Premier Stalin.

The German armies in the Baltic republics now must be evacuated by sea. Severing of the trans-Baltic railway by Gen. Ivan Bagramian at the Lithuanian junction of Siaulai has effectively isolated the mauled German divisions in Latvia and Estonia.

Expanding the Siaulai bulge, the Red army troops struck within 83 miles of the key port of Memel, lying westward, and they drove on Riga, 73 miles northeast, and Tilsit, historic East Prussia city 75 miles southwest. Other Russians are 65 miles south of Riga.

German resistance inside Lithuania was completely disorganized, front dispatches said.

Drive on Gulf of Riga

In Latvia, Gen. Andrei Yeremenko's Liberators of Daugavpils raced for the gulf of Riga.

Marshal Leonid A. Govorov's columns pursued the Germans withdrawing toward Tallinn, less than 100 miles away.

The occupation of Poland moved speedily under Marshal Ivan S. Konev, whose first Ukrainian army surrounded Jaroslaw and hemmed in Przemysl on three sides and advanced across the San river to within 128 miles of German Silesia.

Capture of Siaulai was credited chiefly to tireless Red army infantry, who in a forced march covered more than 30 miles in 24 hours, encircled and stormed the city.

Red Star said Nazi bombers intervened, but Soviet fighters smashed the attack as the survivors of the Siaulai garrisons fled toward the Baltic sea under shellfire on the one remaining road.

Izvestia said Siaulai was scourged by the Nazis, who marshalled labor battalions, engineers and anti-aircraft gunners in the vain defense.

The twin victories at Lwow and Stanislawow freed heavy Soviet forces for a direct blow at Hitler's middle-Europe. It was declared in Moscow that the all-Slav committee's promise six months ago that direct help would be given Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia might be fulfilled in the not too distant future.

Lwow fell after nearly a week of street fighting, but Stanislawow was evacuated at breakneck haste by the Germans when Woney's men outflanked it from the north and east by crossing four water obstacles.

Soviet confidence that the battle of Germany was about to begin was bolstered also by the superiority of the Red air force, which in merely one sector around Lwow reportedly flew 20,000 sorties in ten days.

Near Lwow a forest secreting a German tank concentration and command posts was turned into a fiery holocaust by a Soviet air raid.

BEEF RATIONING NOT YET RELAXED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 28 — There'll be no ration-free beefsteaks or roasts for a couple of weeks at the earliest

The office of price administration announced yesterday that the present ration point values on all meats and dairy products would be maintained until at least Aug 12

The war food administration had ordered OPA to discontinue rationing of most beef steaks and roasts by Aug 1. OPA registered vigorous protests, however, and succeeded in having the directive set aside temporarily

Meetings between the two agencies and other government officials scheduled in the next few days will determine whether commercial and utility grade steaks and roasts will come off the ration list in mid-August.

While distribution of August processed food point charts was held up along with the meat tables, OPA indicated a few changes in the values on canned foods probably will be announced Saturday and go into effect Sunday.

Changes in the meats-fats program also were scheduled originally for Sunday when three additional red stamps—A5, B5 and C5—become valid. The stamps will be good indefinitely.

CONG. SMITH TALKS AT GRANGE MEETING

Criticizes Tendency Toward More Bureaucratic Control.

Congressman Frederick C. Smith was guest speaker when Martel Grange met Tuesday night at the Martel school. He discussed some of the important problems confronting congress and the country, particularly what he described as "the tendency toward more bureaucratic control of the lives of our people."

Congressman Smith stated, "The more government control there is of any industry, whether it be farming, labor, manufacturing or what not, the more bureaucrats will have and the less those who produce the necessities of life will have for their own sustenance.

"It was by being free from political control of all kinds that America became great," Cong. Smith continued. "The very basis of the Constitution is protection, not against people exploiting each other, but against political exploitation of the people through the misuse of government powers.

"Government has no resources of its own. Its only source of supply is taxes, that is, the fruits of men's labors." Cong. Smith said government has strayed from the Constitution and in taking control of production, so-called "bureaucrats" have gained and the producers have lost.

In conclusion he said in relation to strikes now going on in war plants, "I think it is wrong to stop the production of any war goods whether by strikes, slow downs, lockouts or any other such process. I think it is a grave wrong. Our soldiers resent it as do their fathers and mothers and other relatives, as do indeed all true and patriotic Americans."

Plans were discussed by Grange members for arrangement of an exhibit to be displayed at the Marion County fair. About 60 persons attended the meeting.

Florida Lime, a Cool Fruit

LIME SHERBET: Try it with berries, peaches or melons.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

The coolest fruit there is, just to look at by itself, even before you put it into a long, cool drink or a dessert, is a Florida lime. They're big, and a deep, shiny green, unlike the little yellow ones we used to import from the West Indies. Florica limes are well distributed throughout the United States this summer, too, and they must now, by state law conform to the same standards for juice content and maturity that are applied to other Florida citrus fruits. A Florida lime must be at least 40 per cent juice by weight, before it can be shipped from the state.

In our illustration, with its heap of cool green limes in the center, are four suggested ways of using lime sherbet. Reading clockwise, they are in a parfait with berries, topped with fresh peach slices, topping a slice of watermelon, and last, filling a half cantaloupe.

Here's how to make the sherbet:

Lime Milk Sherbet

1 tablespoon gelatine, 1 quart milk, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup corn syrup, ¾ cup lime juice, ¼ teaspoon salt

Soften gelatine in ½ cup of the cold milk. Place over hot water, and heat until dissolved. Add to remaining milk. Mix sugar, corn syrup, lime juice and salt and add slowly to milk mixture stirring constantly. Set cold control of automatic refrigerator at point recommended for freezing; pour sherbet mixture into tray and freeze until firm, stirring occasionally. This makes about two quarts. (If desired, sherbet may be tinted light green by adding a little green vegetable coloring before freezing).

Avocado Lime Ice

1 and ½ large ripe avocados, ¼ cup honey, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup lime juice, 2 egg whites.

Peel avocados, halve and remove seeds. Mash pulp thoroughly. Blend in honey, salt and lime juice Spread out in freezing tray of automatic refrigerator with cold control set at point recommended for freezing Freeze to a mush. Beat egg whites stiff. Fold carefully and thoroughly into the frozen mixture. Return to freezing tray; freeze firm, stirring once or twice. Serve on fruit as first course or dessert, as an accompaniment to the meat course, or by itself as a dessert. This is enough for six.

The charter of Yale, drawn up in 1745, is still in force.

Cubs and Zanesville Game Called in 6th Without Score

By BOB COCHERL

Marion baseball fans at Lincoln park for the second consecutive night, took cover last night as rain pummeled down with two out in Marion's half of the sixth with no score for either the locals or Zanesville. The game was called at this point by Umpire Winner and will be played at a later date.

It was a real pitcher's duel as Don Schmidt held the locals to one hit, a single by Pileckas. "Red" Bailey also did a neat job of hurling as he was nicked for but four hits in five complete innings.

The nearest either side came to scoring was in the second inning as Granzig walked, took second on Jeske's ground out and went to third on a passed ball. He died here, however, as Anders struck out and Kuhlman grounded out.

John Pileckas, the newest recruit, started his first game last night and got the only Cub hit as he beat out a ground ball to second base. He came here from Hagaman, N. Y., to make his debut as a professional player.

In last night's Star it was erroneously stated that Fiest was the losing pitcher in Wednesday's game. It should have been Condit.

Tonight in a single game at Lincoln park Art Parke will be after his fourth win in twelve starts as he faces the Dodgers at 8 p. m.

Following is the summary of last night's game.

MARSHALL BATTERS MAXIM TO WIN IN 10-ROUND MATCH

Foe Has Age and Weight Advantage but Can't Stand Punches.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 28—A fighter is supposed to have passed his peak at 36, but that age apparently hasn't slowed up Lloyd Marshall.

Heavyweight Joey Maxim, who had amassed a string of nine straight victories until he ran into a bevy of Marshall rights in Cleveland stadium last night, can testify that Marshall still can hit.

The Sacramento, Calif., Negro, rated by the National Boxing association as a logical contender for the light heavyweight title, spotted Maxim 21 pounds and eight years, but emerged with a unanimous 10-round decision over the military policeman from Malden Field, Mo.

Marshall registered two knockdowns and Maxim almost took the complete count on his second trip to the canvas. The jabbing soldier went down from a right to the jaw in the second. He could have risen from that fall four or five seconds earlier, but elected to rest until the toll reached eight.

However, the blow that dumped him on the floor in the tenth was a different matter. A bit peeved because the ninth round had been taken away from him for a low blow, Marshall rushed Maxim at the start of the final heat and felled him with a quick right-hand shot. The M. P. managed to struggle to his feet at the count of nine and was able to stab, cling and stagger his way through to the end of the round.

The triumph earned Marshall a probable match with the winner of tonight's Lee Q. Murray-Turkey Thompson fight in New York's Madison Square Garden.

NEWARK TIGHTENS GRIP ON TOP SPOT

Newark continued to win last night and again strengthened its lead in the Ohio State league.

Springfield's hopes of gaining first place from the Newarkites grew dimmer when it was pushed back another game after Newark defeated Springfield, 2 to 1. Middletown is now five and one-half games behind in third place. The three occupants of the lower bracket remain the same in their standing with Marion still on the bottom, 18 games behind.

Scores by innings of games played last night not involving Marion follow:

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By FRITZ HOWELL
(Pinch-Hitting for Hugh Fullerton Jr.)

NEW YORK, July 28 — He's been 1-A in the draft four times and 4-F four times, but he's the hottest hitter in the American league. We mean Al Zarilla, the St. Louis Browns' outfielder who has whisked back and forth between the club house and his draft board so often he hardly has had time to get into a baseball uniform.

Two weeks ago, operating mostly as a pinch-hitter, he had a batting average of .204. Then he blazed into the starting lineup, and in nine games has fashioned 15 hits in 24 times at bat. Sprinkled among the 15 bingles were three doubles, a triple and two homers. During the spree he scored four runs and batted in 10. He may be 4-F to the army, but he's A-1 with the Browns. He's hitting .625 for the nine contests.

A Budding Dodger

Claude Crocker, North Carolina pitching product, reported to the Brooklyn Bums a day or two ago badly in need of work. Due to college exams he hadn't pitched a ball in a month.

"I thought I was in shape until I lost a running race out there in the outfield," puffed the youngster. "But I'm not used to running that way. I used to be a wingback, and I'm used to cutting to my left."

Brews Seek Revenge for 18-0 Defeat

By The Associated Press

That 18-0 embarrassment dealt the Milwaukee Brewers by the American Association all-stars Wednesday may prove costly to the Columbus Redbirds tonight.

For the champion Brews, leading the league by 10½ games, will be itching to show the home folks it was all a horrible mistake. When the Milwaukeeans are in that frame of mind—and frequently when they're not—they are extremely unkind to opposition pitching.

Tonight that pitching will be delivered by Ken Partenheimer and LeRoy Pfund, who will face Charley Gassaway and Owen Scheetz or Jack Farmer in a double-header opener to a five game series. None of these genis were involved in the All-Stars' Brewer massacre.

Should the pair thwart the Brewers twice tonight, they would lift the Redbirds back into second place, ahead of the Louisville Colonels whom they trail by a mere percentage point.

Tonight's schedule:
Columbus at Milwaukee.
Toledo at Kansas City.
Indianapolis at St. Paul.
Louisville at Minneapolis.

INDIANS TAKE 2-1 EDGE IN FOUR GAME SERIES WITH YANKS

Allie Reynolds Wins 11th Victory To Match His Record Last Year.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 28—The Cleveland Indians yesterday trounced the New York Yankees 8 to 1 to take a two-to-one edge in the four-game series.

The New Yorkers nicked Allie Reynolds for 10 hits in the first five innings but could produce only one run. In the last four rounds they secured only one blow.

Spotting the Yankees the handicap of a lame arm, Reynolds notched his 11th triumph of the season to match his 1943 total. The win also was his third in as many starts against New York and marked the third time Walter (Monk) Dubiel has clashed unsuccessfully with the Indian fireballer.

A former Yankee, Myrl Hoag, led Cleveland's attack on Dubiel with a pair of doubles and two singles, drove in three runs and scored three himself. Mickey Rocco, Oris Hockett and Ken Keltner each hit a double and a single, Rocco running his hitting streak to 10 consecutive games.

The victory was the Indians' ninth in 11 games against eastern opposition and advanced them to within four and a half games of the pace-setting St. Louis Browns. They are a game behind the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox, who are in a virtual deadlock for second place.

Elmer Riddle Takes Mound for Reds Today

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., July 28—The Cincinnati Reds stop off here today for an exhibition game with the Albany team of the Eastern League in what Redleg Manager Bill McKechnie feels is a very important contest.

The game doesn't mean anything to the Reds in league standings but for the first time since May 7, Elmer Riddle takes his place on the mound.

The 21-game winner of last season pulled up with a sore arm at that time after he recorded two victories and the same number of beatings.

Max Marshall, the Cincinnati rightfielder since 1942, left the team yesterday to go to Randolph, Ia., where he is scheduled for induction in the navy Aug. 5. Marshall, 31, is married and has four children.

Cincinnati left Boston yesterday with the lion's share of a four-game series, winning three. The finale was credited to Jim Konstanty, who took a 4 to 2 decision from the Braves, aided by a Boston error.

Cardington Pushes Winning Streak to 11

Cardington plays Richwood at Richwood Sunday. There will also be a baseball tournament at Cardington in September.

Big Mort Cooper Shines On As Rookie Luminaries Fade Out

By The Associated Press

Rookies come and rookies go but Mort Cooper's powerful right arm still represents much of the pitching strength of the pennant-bound St. Louis Cardinals.

The husky Red Bird from Weaver Grove, Mo., staggered through the early season and was pasted off the hill three times in a row as he took a back seat to George Munger, Harry Brecheen and the veteran Max Lanier.

Mort answered the "what's the matter with Cooper?" remark by opening a spurt May 28 that has produced 11 wins in 12 starts and boosted him into a tie with Bucky Walters of the Reds for most shutouts with five.

"HOT" PLUGS IN A COLD ENGINE

Maybe you didn't know that there are two kinds of spark plugs—"hot" and "cold."

And maybe you hadn't realized that the wrong plug for the kind of driving you do now can cause a real waste—expense—perhaps costly engine trouble.

Wartime driving is generally slower driving. It may call for numerous small special adjustments to get most efficient performance from your engine.

That's why it's important to have your power plant adjusted to present use and habits rather than to normal requirements

Are you sure your engine is?

It doesn't cost much to find out at our shop and do the little things that put your car in fighting trim.

Report Byrnes Plans To Leave Public Life

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 28—After nearly 30 years in the center of the Washington political whirligig—and a brief turn on the U. S. supreme court—James F. Byrnes, 65-year-old hustling South Carolinian, is believed by his friends to be preparing to step quietly out of public life.

Smiling Jimmy, after 12 years a senator and 14 years a member of the house, went on the highest court of the land a few years ago, believing he was "fixed for life." Came the war and President Roosevelt, who had called on his friend many times in the past to do trouble-shooting for him, drafted him once more.

He took Byrnes off the court and made him director of the office of war mobilization, the most powerful wartime job ever held by a civilian in the nation's history, except that of the chief executive himself.

turning back of various small-scale enemy counterattacks.

(The London public speculated that Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., of Sicily fame, was leading this huge stream of men and armor pouring through the gap. London newspaper declared 50,000 to 75,000 Germans were threatened with being caught in the pocket against the seacoast.)

While the Americans rapidly expanded the 100-mile Normandy line, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British and Canadian forces broke up one small German counterattack after another south of Caen.

Six Spearheads Advance

With giant strides Bradley's six steaming spearheads appeared to have precipitated a broad German withdrawal.

One spearhead stabbed at Notre Dame De Cenilly on its left, taking that town 11 miles southwest of St. Lo and about the same distance from the jumpoff point in the offensive.

Here the Americans were nine miles southeast of Coutances, while other columns of the same movement spread along an eight-mile front were pointed at the city itself. The nearest was within gunfire of the only bridge affording escape at Coutances for the Germans.

Others pushed to Ledeshayes, six miles south of Marigny and to the Soulles woods, 3½ miles south of Canisy.

Two other spearheads closed in from the north from captured Lessay and Periers.

The Germans possibly were planning to make a stand behind the steep-bluffed Soulle and Sienne rivers which run inland through Coutances, but already such a line was threatened by three other spearheads shoving deep into German territory from the west and east of St. Lo.

Highballing down the highway from Normandy toward Brittany, one column had reached a point within 1½ miles of Tessy-Sur-Vire, 10 miles south of St. Lo.

Another column was fanning out to the west. These twin spearheads southwest of St. Lo were aimed at Avranches, at the base of the Normandy peninsula and behind Coutances. Avranches is 30 miles below St. Lo.

Coming through Le Mesnil Herman, they were in position to swing west to join the forces driving on Coutances, or to veer east and join the sixth spearhead which had cleared a 13-mile stretch of the road running east from St. Lo to Caumont.

Bradley thus had put the Germans in the position every commander dreams of—stabbed on a wide front by numerous forces which had a bewildering profusion of opportunities to converge, fan out, encircle and cut off the opposing troops.

As the tanks, half-tracks and self-propelled artillery units continued their advance, American doughboys mopped up by-passed pockets of German resistance. Two stubborn pockets in the Vire river bend just west and south of St. Lo were wiped out.

East of St. Lo other American troops were reported to have improved their positions, driving the Germans out of a 13-mile stretch between St. Lo and Caumont.

A spokesman at supreme headquarters said the Americans were so extensively on the move on the 40-mile stretch from Caumont to the sea that there "no longer was a question of a line on the American front." He described the situation as fluid.

Despite bad weather, allied fighter-bombers continued their close support of the Normandy ground troops, striking at the battered enemy and providing cover for allied armor and infantry.

Dewey Against Hamilton Fish

Declares Congressman Has Raised "Racial and Religious Issues."

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., July 28—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey announced opposition today to the reelection of Rep. Hamilton Fish, Republican, who is running in the 29th New York congressional district, on the ground Fish had raised "racial and religious issues."

In a statement dictated to reporters by James C. Hagerty, Dewey's press secretary, the G.O.P. presidential nominee said:

"Two years ago I publicly opposed the nomination and election of Congressman Fish. Statements attributed to him confirm my judgment expressed at that time.

"Anyone who injects a racial or religious issue into a political campaign is guilty of a disgraceful, un-American act.

"I have always fought that kind of thing all my life and always will, regardless of partisan consideration. I have never accepted the support of any such individual and I never shall."

Advised in New York of Dewey's statement, Fish issued this statement:

"When I referred to the fact that the people of Jewish origin are largely in favor of the New Deal, I stated a fact that everybody knows. I made no attacks whatsoever and never have on the Jewish people. I have never been anti-Semitic. What I stated was just the plain truth—that the Jewish voters are largely for the New Deal and President Roosevelt."

Continuing, Hagerty read a telegram which said the New York paper had attributed the following to Fish:

"If you want more on that they (Jewish people) are for Roosevelt and the New Deal. I think it would be much better for them if they split their vote between the two major parties. I don't think a single group should go all out one way or the other and I note from the votes of the Jewish districts in New York City that the big majority of the Jews are for the New Deal."

The statement of Fish was "in" first made by Dewey since his nomination concerning prospective support by any Republican for the national ticket.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, the vice presidential nominee, said at a press conference here Wednesday that the support of all elements willing to vote for the Republican ticket would be welcomed as far as he was concerned. Dewey made no comment at that time.

BUYERS CAUTIOUS IN GRAIN PIT TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 28—Traders backed away from the wheat pit today as quotations held too near the government's $1.55 support price to encourage selling. Most of the trade was for commercial interests but the demand was not great and was offset by hedging pressure.

Rye dipped to the lowest levels since early June under heavy liquidation and some selling.

Favorable war news and lower cotton prices ran the rye market into stop loss orders early in the session and the declines ranged as high as a cent before short covering caused a rally and the trade quieted.

The oats market was irregular and trading light.

SELLING HALTS MANY LEADERS

Only Scattered Favorites Able To Creep Ahead in Today's Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 28—Scattered favorites managed to creep ahead in today's market although many leaders stalled under the lightest kind of selling.

From the start the pace was the slowest in more than two months.

The ticker tape frequently was the lowest in more than two months.

The ticker tape frequently was at a standstill and near the fourth hour, fractional declines predominated.

Among issues exhibiting quiet strength was Great Northern which touched a new 1944 top at one time. In front occasionally were Graham-Paige, Montgomery Ward and Deere. Moderately lower tendencies were shown by Standard Oil (NJ), U. S. Steel, General Motors, Du Pont, Anaconda, N. Y. Central, Goodyear and Allied Chemical.

Much of 1944 Campaign Work Set for Radio

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 28—Politics via the microphone is expected by radio men to assume a more active part than usual in the 1944 campaign. They attribute this in part to the fact that the presidential candidates of the major parties both have "voice appeal" and in part to wartime conditions.

As far as the networks are concerned, the broadcast campaign, it is believed, will consist mainly of speeches by the principals and their leading supporters. Some will come from political rallies, but a considerable number may be out and out broadcasts, with the visible audience secondary, because of travel restrictions.

When the air campaign will get under way in earnest has not been announced pending completion of preliminary arrangements by the national committees.

Both men were flown to Millinocket in a forestry plane.

Another Lands Safely

George Stillwagon of Dayton, piloting a sixth plane, reached Megantic, Quebec, near Jackman, Me., after landing and refueling at Clayton lake.

The three planes arriving safely in Millinocket were piloted by Fred Haines of Middletown, Charles Collins of Dayton and Robert Cook of Columbus

George Gruhn, Maine state forestry supervisor, said he saw six planes, including Stillwagon's craft, flying in formation over Shin pond, near Patten, 50 miles northeast of Millinocket, but that they separated into two groups shortly afterward.

James Clarkson, dam keeper at Chamberlain lake in the Allagash chain, 100 miles north of Greenville, reported he saw three planes.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"HUGH NOT only implied, but emphasized it, repeatedly," I answered. "And Potter," I added hastily, "please don't waste another second thinking about my reaction toward your not telling me about this. I agree with Katherine. What I don't know, I can't betray by sign, look or word, no matter how unreasoning or innocent."

"Spoken like my own brave girl," my father approved, patting my shoulder affectionately. But Jack's is a risky trade mind.

"If haste is imperative," he said, "I've got to get busy. I'll need a laboratory for working out these details, and some specialized assistance of the very highest order."

Hands Over Notebook

My father took a note book from his desk, clipped it to a well-thumbed page and handed it to my brother-in-law.

"Copy these names," he said, "and study the data concerning them while I am gone. I shall be back in a minute and go over the whole thing with you. I have things of my own to do which require haste—rounding up the F. B. I. men, for instance. I want some of the best to meet that train with us this morning."

He spoke the last sentence while he was ushering me out of the door, followed by Jack's perfunctory "So long, Red Head, and pleasant dreams."

I knew that my brother-cousin had forgotten that I existed, once the door had closed behind me. He was throwing all his tremendous powers of mind and energy into the problem I had brought him, and he would think of nothing else until he had finished his work.

That my father also wished to get me off his hands as soon as possible, now that my work was done, was clear to me, although his farewell kiss was as tender as always. But his words were crisp and hurried.

"You will find everything ready for your comfort, I am sure," he said. "Try to sleep. I will waken you in plenty of time for a light breakfast and the donning of your mourning costume before we go to that train. Are the boys quick dressers?"

"Yes," I answered truthfully, "they are. They need no more time than I do. But, Father, I know your schedules. Will you please give me a quarter of an hour more time than you have planned to do?"

He frowned involuntarily, then changed the frown to a smile.

"I promise you that," he said from the doorway. "Good sleeping!"

Mental Alarm Clock

Then he was gone, and I lost no time in undressing and getting into bed. I saw that my wrist watch was running, and set my mental alarm clock for the time I wished to arise. Unless I am terribly fatigued, I can awaken within fifteen minutes of any hour I wish. I do not pretend to explain how I can do it. I only know that I possess the faculty which my family deems uncanny.

I fell asleep almost at once, and awakened within five minutes of the time I had set. I rose, had the leisure I wished for a hasty shower, and then dressed myself in the mourning costume which I was scheduled to wear at the railway station.

My father knocked on my door before I had finished, and I called out cheerily:

"Already up, Father. If you'll call the boys, I'll be ready for you in another five minutes. Where do you want me?"

"Where I last saw you," he said, "in my living room. I'll tell the boys to come there, too."

Message for Boys

"Please give them a message from me," I called through the door. "Tell them to be especially particular with their appearance this morning. I want them to look as different as possible from the boys those Nazi agents saw last night."

"I'll tell them," he promised, and I proceeded leisurely with my dressing, and went to my father's living room at the end of the five minutes I had specified.

"Ah!" My father appraised my costume. "A perfect disguise! I never would have known you."

"Let us hope the Nazis won't," I said. Then I looked around the room.

"Jack isn't here?" I asked.

"Already will be anything to dare for the next twenty-four hours," my father replied. "He has gone into the library with that problem—not exactly that, for he has men working with him, but he won't come up for air until he has finished."

Perspiration

Sooner or later I knew deep down inside of me that someone would do it. And now they have. Why I didn't do it myself I don't know. I guess all I had was a seaplane bomb floating around inside my brain pan. That is the difference between a vague dreamer and scientific discoverer.

The idea which was thus obscurely looming inside me is that perspiration is a good growth medium for the fungus parasites that infest the skin—athlete's foot and the like. And the scientists who made actual proof of this are two Chicago bacteriologists, Drs. Theodore Cornbleet and Esther Meyer.

They collected perspiration by incasing human subjects up to their necks in a rubber bag while they were seated in an electric light heat cabinet. They would obtain 200 c. c. of perspiration in about twenty minutes—about a water glass full. I guess when you get that much you stop calling it perspiration and begin to call it sweat.

Putting this sweat in culture tubes after it had been autoclaved, and inoculating it with common skin fungi it was shown to support growth of tricophyton, microsporon, etc. The tricophytons are responsible for the various forms of ringworm.

Anyone, as I have indicated, might have guessed that this was true because the favorite places for ringworm infections are the moist crevices of the body always bathed in perspiration—the armpits, the crotch and spaces between the toes particularly. In fact it is a safe bet that many of these have been called hyperidrosis, or miliaria—that is to say the eruption was ascribed to the irritating effect of the sweat alone.

No wonder then ringworm is so common. Not only does the perspiration furnish a natural medium for its growth, but the keratin of the skin does also. The keratin, as you know if you have read this column lately, is the upper, horny layer of the skin. The tricophyton likes to grow on this to such an extent that you can often find it growing on the leather of a chair in damp weather, or any similar leather goods.

It was once thought that the lactic acid in perspiration which is what makes it taste so sour was a detriment to the growth of skin fungi. But it has been shown that when the perspiration dries it quickly is attacked by saprophytes which alkalinize it and also form sugars which probably increases its desirability as a growing field for the fungi.

The lesson of this is obvious—to bathe particularly the armpits, crotch and toes morning and evening during this hot weather and after drying the skin apply a mild antiseptic like boric acid or a dilute alcohol solution.

There is a new preparation for athlete's foot (which, of course, is a form of this fungus infection) called "Soretone," which is, if you are chemically minded, 4-Beta-Ethyl-Hexyl-Phenol. It was used first in 72 cases of severe, stubborn epidermatophytosis of the feet, which had resisted other regular forms of treatment. Most of the cases (68%) showed marked improvement within 10 days and complete cure at the end of 20 days was the rule.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Answer: Yes—alcoholic neuritis.

FIRST RATE WAR JOB WINS PLANT "E"

By The Associated Press

MT. VERNON, O., July 28—In the nearby community of Gleemont—population less than 500—where workmen cut and shaped sandstone from the rolling hills for more than 25 years, is a plant turning out steel products for war.

Two years ago officials of the Briar Hill Stone Co. set out to convert its men and machines to the needs of war. Large machinery used in peacetime for cutting and shaping stone for buildings was altered and cut down.

The company currently is making parts for the amphibian tractor known as the water buffalo, machining and assembling axles for an Army roustabout crane, machining division plates for sea water condensers and formerly turned out brackets for General Sherman tanks.

"The job of reconversion was a huge one," Elmer C. Blum, vice president and general manager of the company, explained. "We probably could have bought new machines to do the job without its costing us much more, but we had this material and figured we might as well use it."

Wednesday the company was given the Army-Navy "E" award and officers of the services commended both management and employes for their conversion from stone to steel work.

Approximately 75 employes, among them farmers and high school boys, are manning the machines of war.

Russians Reveal Nazi Massacre in Lublin

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 28—The first Soviet war correspondents' stories of Hitler's ghetto in Lublin, where a "medieval massacre" was declared carried out for years, were received in Moscow yesterday.

The correspondents said they had visited the dank chambers of the underground Lublin prison and found many dead, including Ukrainians, Poles, Jews—men, women and children.

"They were killed in a hurry," said Red Star's correspondent, "on the steps and staircases, in niches and underground passages even on the entry of our fighters into the city."

The Germans planned to burn the bodies together with the prison, beneath the Merion towers, but the rapidity of the Soviet advance prevented, the eyewitness report said.

The first auto taxi in New York cruised on Fifth Avenue in 1904.
